The Institute for Linguistic Studies of the Russian Academy of Sciences announces the Third Conference on Uralic, Altaic and Paleo-Asiatic languages. The Conference will take place at the Institute for Linguistic Studies (St. Petersburg, Tuchkov per., 9), on November 21-23, 2022. The Conference is held regularly every two years. This year the Conference will be held in a mixed format, offline and online.

Here is a tentative list of topics that will be studied at the conference on the material of Uralic, Altaic and Paleo-Asiatic languages:

- 2) Language contacts.
- 3) Sociolinguistic and ethnolinguistic studies.
- 4) Comparative and historical studies.
- 5) Corpora studies.

The conference may include workshops. The topic of a workshop cannot be limited to the genetic group or family of languages. Proposals for workshops should be sent to the following e-mail address: langrus.spb@gmail.com until July 20, 2022. The proposal should contain an annotation of the workshop and at least 8 annotations or abstracts of the talks. Workshop participants can submit an abstract up to 3600 characters, excluding the list of references and glosses (see the requirements for the abstracts below) or a short annotation of the talk. In the later case, if the workshop is included in the conference program, the participants should submit the abstract before September 1, 2022. The organizing committee will notify on the acceptance / rejection of the workshop before July 30, 2022.

Anonymous abstracts for participation in the general session or in a workshop should be sent to e-mail: langrus.spb@gmail.com until September 1, 2022. The abstract should not exceed 3600 characters (with spaces), including examples, diagrams, and tables but excluding the list of references and glosses. The abstract should be sent in one of the following formats: .doc, .docx or .rtf. If non-standard fonts are used, they should be attached to the letter; in this case abstracts should be sent also in .pdf format. The letter should contain the information about the author / authors: name, place of work / study, e-mail address; it should say whether the presentation is planned at a workshop or at the general session, as well as the information on whether the presentation will be made offline or online. Each participant may submit no more than two applications -- in this case one of the two presentations should be made in co-authorship.

The Organizing Committee will select abstracts based on anonymous reviewing. The notification of the acceptance / rejection will be sent to the authors no later than October 1, 2022.

Time for presentations: 30 minutes (20 minutes talk + 10 minutes discussion). Conference languages: Russian, English. There is no registration fee for participation in the conference.
